Dear Wushu Championship Attendees,

Warmest wishes and congratulations to all those attending today's 2025 International Wushu Championships. Long Island is honored to play host to this thrilling competition. Wushu martial arts is a longtime Chinese cultural tenet and it's wonderful to see it shared here in our local communities.

I offer special thanks to our talented competitors for their stewardship of Wushu and for carrying its legacy via their performances. Our gratitude also belongs to tournament organizers who have worked tirelessly to make today's event a success, especially Lynn Xu Lin, Yi-Yuan Lee, Dr. Henry C. Lee, and Tong Chen for their efforts, as well as the many other organizations who helped lead the charge.

As the Supervisor of North Hempstead, I've had the privilege of witnessing the positive impact Wushu has on our neighbors, especially those in the Asian American and Pacific Islander community. The sport's local leaders have shown an unwavering commitment to cultural preservation and to promoting active and healthy lifestyles, further exemplified through Wushu scholarships to our local students. Not only do your efforts enhance our town's cultural landscape, but also its sense of community.

Your work remains a shining example of how cultural exchange can unite us all for a greater purpose. Good luck to all – you've been winners long before stepping onto the mat.

Sincerely,
